ARCHITECT: unknown

BUILDER: unknown

20. HISTORICAL AND ARCHITECTURAL IMPORTANCE:

The St. Mark's Community Center was constructed as a Lutheran church when the congregation at Osborne Corners divided and came to Guilderland Center to worship. The nineteenth-century church, with side aisles flanking the engaged front tower with polygonal spire, represents a simplified version of ecclesiastical design popular in America from the eighteenth century. Both the interior and exterior of the building display considerable integrity. The building is a significant example of quality craftsmanship and vernacular interpretation of high style church design. The building survives in an area of growing suburban development.
