

Times Union

WSJ SUNDAY

*March 22
2009*

So ... why is the stock market a good retirement investment vehicle?/E5

---

ALBANY, NEW YORK

---

THE BUZZ

Watch out, McKownville

The final sentences in a BusinessWeek story last month that featured Albany NanoTech's Alain Kaloyeros has some neighbors of the research complex on edge.

Here are the sentences about Kaloyeros: "His goal, he jokes, is to expand his R&D campus so he can walk to the nearest Starbucks without going outside. That Starbucks is a mile away."

The story was making its way via e-mail around the neighborhood.

"All residents of McKownville, especially those living on Providence, Mercer and Warren streets, should make sure they read the last sentence," wrote neighbor Don Reeb.

Those streets, of course, lie between the existing nanotech complex and the Starbucks at Stuyvesant Plaza.

Said a spokesman for Albany NanoTech: "BusinessWeek pointed out that this was a joke, and we're delighted that Don Reeb was able to recognize it as such."